Changes of Life.

Change is the common feature of society—of life.
Ten years convert the population of schools into men and women, the young into fathers and matrons, make and mar fortunes, and bury the last generation but one.

Twenty years convert infants into lovers, fathers and mothers, decide men's fortunes and distinctions, convert active men and women into crawling drivelers. and bury all preceding generations. Thirty years raise an active generation from nonentity, change fascinating beauties into bearable old women, convert lovers into grandfathers, and bury the active generation or reduce them to decrepitude or imbecility. Forty years, alas! change the face of all society. Infants are growing old. the bloom of youth and beauty has passed away, two active generations have been swept from the stage of life, names once cherished are forgotten, un-suspected candidates for fame have started up from the exhaustless womb

And in fifty years, mature, ripe fifty years—half a century—what tremendous changes occur! How time writes her sublime wrinkles everywhere-in rock, river, forest, and cities, hamlets, villages; in the nature of men, and aspects of all civilized society?

Let us pass on to eighty years -and what do we desire to see to comfort us in the world? Our parents are gone; our children have passed away from us into all parts of the world, to fight the grim and desperate battle of life. Our old friends —where are they? We behold a world of which we know nothing and to which we are unknown. We weep for generations long gone by-for lov-ers, for parents, for children, for friends in the grave. We see everything turned upside down by the fickle hand of fortune, and the absolute destiny of time. In a word, we behold the vanity of life, and are quite ready to lay down the poor burden and be gone.

Not a bad Ruse, if True.

The Poughkeepsie (N. Y.) Eagle tells how a special through train of six cars from San Francisco passed over the Hud-son River Railroad, a few days ago, the manifest calling for six car loads of the eggs of silk worms, said to be en route from China to France. When the train arrived in New York suspicious movements of the authorities revealed the true facts regarding the real freight of three of the silkworm cars, which was that they contained gold bars to the smount of $18,000,000, consigned to the banking house of the Rothschilds. This valuable freight train ran through from San Francisco to its destination without even causing a suspicion as to its valuable carge. We do not purpose casting any doubts upon the truth of the story, but doesn't it strike the read-er that $18,000,000 of gold bars is a pretty large consignment even to the Rothschilds? Scarcely that amount of gold has left the country for a year past. Penria Transcript.

A Dangerous Torpor.

Torpor or inactivity of the kidneys is seriously dangerous to those organs, since it is the precedent of diseases which destroy their substance and endanger life. KAUFMAN & BACHRACH

Some time ago Senator Edmunds, of Vermont, introduced in the Senate a series of resolutions setting forth the validity of the thirteenth, fourteenth and filteenth amendments to the Constitution. The Democratic Senators, after much consideration and discussion, have finally agreed upon another series of resolutions, embodying the Democratic idea with reference to the amendments, and on Monday they were presented to the Senate by Senator Morgan, of Alabama. The following is the full text of the resolutions:

Resolved, As the judgment of the Pen-Fifteenth amendments to the constitution of the United States are as valid and bind-ing as any other part of the constitution; that the people of the United States have that the proper of the onforcement of the whole constitution in every State and Territory of the United States, and that it is alike the right and duty of the United States, so far us power has been delegated to them, to enforce and amendments and to protect every citizen in the exercise of all the rights thereby secured.

Resolved, That the Government of the United States and the Government of the several States are distinct, and each has citizens of its own who owe it allegiance and whose rights within its jurisdiction it must protect; that the Government of the United States is one of delegated powers alone; its authority is defined and limited by the constitution; all powers not granted by that instrument, not prohibited to it by the States, are reserved to the States respectively or to the people; and that no right can be acquired under the laws of the United States except such as the Government of the United States has authority to grant or secure.

Resolved, That the constitution of the United States has not conferred the right United States has not conterred the right of suffrage upon any one, and the United States have no voters of their own crea-tion in the States, but the Fiftcent Amendment to the constitution has in-vested citizens of the United States with a new constituent right, which is exemp-tion from discrimination in the exercise of the elective franchise on account o of the elective francise on account race, color or previous condition of servitude; and it is within the jurisdiction of the United States, which Congress may exert by appropriate legislation, to prevent the denial or abridgement by a State of the right of a citizen to vote when such denial or abridgement is on account of the race, color or previous condition of servitude of the voter. Resolved. That when such right to vote is denied or abridged by the conduct of a person who is not so acting by authority and obedience to the laws of the State, the jurisdiction to pushis auch conduct is in the State Government, and is not in the dovernment of the United States Even the most casual reading of these resolutions will reveal the fact that they are based upon the ultra State rights idea—the notion that the United States government has no supreme authority, but that it is the creation of the several States, and exists solely by their consent. This idea, which has long been the sheet anchor of the Democratic faith, and which furnished the foundation for the late rebellion, as well as for the nullification troubles of Jackson's time, was popularly supposed to have died when the flag of treason went down at it seems to have survived even that the fee, with computations, though 1 Appomattox Court House in 1865, but I would myself infinitely prefer to go to the show." [Laughter.] great disaster, to again appear as the guiding star of the Democratic party. That the idea will be carried out, nocording to the spirit of the resolutions, if the Domocratic party ever gains control of the government, there can be no | will be able to get through with the doubt. The whole history of that party public business now on its calendar in indicates that these resolutions set forth its honest sentiments. "The State is supreme," says the Democratic party; "the United States government has no right to interfere, unless the State by statute nullifles the provisions of the amendments." In other words, the State may utterly ignore the rights of the colored citizen by neglecting to enforce the observance of those rights, and the central government is powerless to interfere. All that is necessary to for nearly a year. They are all liepub the complete success of the purpose of the Southern Democracy—the practical places should be in the hands of Demodisfranchisement of the colored race is to predect to punish violations of those State laws which nominally place it is forced upon the country by the the State in harmony with the Federal constitution. This is the practical result, however much it may be covered up by specious pleas in favor of State shoulder. rights.

Against this heartless scheme of the Democracy the Republican party offers past the prime of life, poorly dressed, this platform : First, that the United States government is the supreme au- filts them with sand, does them up in thority of the land, and that it has the nest shape, and selecting a house, he right to enforce the observance of its calls the lady to the door and says. laws; Second, that it is the duty of the "Madam, I'm old and poor, but I'm not Knecutive to faithfully carry out the laws passed under the provisions of the street, and won't you be good another the provisions of the be derelied in its duty if it fails to make plies the lady. "That's so; but I'm not adequate appropriations for the purpose of enforcing those laws. This is the Republican platform, upon which it will triumph in 1880.

From Hor Recent Lecture in New York. "I remember a committee in a faraway Western Capital wrote to me for a speech. It was too far away. I said: I will charge you too much money to come. 'It don't make any difference,' said they; 'we will pay whatever you wish to charge. We want you to come. So after divers and sundry epistles and documents had passed backward and forward, we agreed upon the time and money. It was a good deal of money, They said, There is not a man o woman in the town who does not want to hear you. There will be such an audience as you have never seen in our State. In, an amiable and deluded state I went my way to the town. I thought so much had been said about my coming that I was going to have a wonderful time. The Queen of Sheba would not be better entertained. I came to the hotel. I got there alone. What is the matter,' said I, 'that nobody met me at the depot nobody meets me at the door, and nobody says bere are the rooms provided for your ntertainment!" 'Well,' said the clerk, the truth is everybody is so much interested in the show that is to be here to-night.' [Laughter.] 'Ah,' I said. So when I went up to look after my ewer and towels and the rest, I found very scanty provision of some things, very few towels and very little water. This is not what I expected to find at all,' I said, after what had been promised, and the money that was to come into my pocket. I rang the bell once, but there was no response, and I rang it half a dozen times before anybody at all came, and when somebody did come I found that the truth was that the pitcher and basin that belonged in that room, and the general provision of other articles had been carried off to be given over to the tender mercies of some of the people of the show. | Laughter. I wanted something to eat, but so far as I could discover everything had been drunk and devoured by the people of the show. [Laughter.] Half-past 7 came, and the dignified committeemen waited on me. A great many people have bought tickets, and everybody else would have bought a ticket, but the long and the short of the matter is, they are all going to the show. Can't you postpone it?' 'No, I said; 'very sorry, but I can't. I will release you altogether.' 'No,' they said; that would not be right; we will pay you your fee; the hall is ready, and if anybody comes, why of course you can speak to them; but you will excuse us if you please; we would like to go to the show.' Baltimore Quzette (Dem.) It is quite doubtful whether Congress the five weeks which remain to it. I certainly could if members would settle down to business, but this they are not likely to do, and an extra session is now threatened. It is intimated in our Washington dispatches that the late caucus of Democratic Senators had this matter of an extra session under advisement, and that a very strong sentiment in its favor was developed. If Congress adjourns on the 4th of March there will be no reorganization of the Senate, and 130 officers and servants of the body will hold over and draw pay licans, and it is argued that those fat crate. The railroads have done muck to encourage immigration, and are yet working in this direction with great real.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 21.—Up to this morning the successive Republican caucuses showed but little change in the vote. E. W. Keyes, of Madison, averaged about thirty votes; Matt. Carpenter averaged twenty six votes, fortyfive being necessary to nominate. A floating vote of eight or ten was lost part of the time for a dark horse and part of the time they divided on the three leading candidates. The Republican caucus at 11 o'clock this morning adjourned without material change. Soon afterward a message went from Howe's headquarters to the Keyes leaders, inviting a conference. There was no general knowledge of the answer given until the Republican coucus, at 3 o'clock this afternoon, adjourned. The Keyes and the Howe men then began to drop out by two and threes, and the Carpenter men looked around and found themselves alone. They grew mad and aggressive as they understood that a joint caucus in a basement-room of the capitol, but heat and perspiration from the body in general Republican caucus then assembled, and had several ballots, Carpenter running up to 35, and Keyes dropping to 28, Howe remaining at 26. This evening the two Houses balloted being not far different from the first clammy. caucus averages. The whole drift of opinion was that if a Keyes and Howe coalition should be made they could not deliver, but that enough votes would go to Carpenter to secure his nomination. The excitement was intense, the capital being thronged by almost the entire population of the city and by leading men from all parts of the State. Conference Committees from the separate wings have met each other, but no arof a nuccessful result. The Republican caucus to-night, after everal brief adjournments without a ballot, adjourned till to-morrow morning, by a vote of 15 to 12. It is understood that the 15 votes are substantially the Howe and Keyes combination, which are just enough to nominate. Immediately after the adjournment the Keyes and Howe men went into caucus and the Carpenter men scattered throughout the city. It has transpired that the Howe proposition to the Keyes men was, first, to unite on Philetus Sawyer. That was declined. The Howe men then proposed to unite on Kelly Speaker of the Assembly. That was declined. The Keyes men then proposed Charles E. Dyer, of Racine, pres ent I nited States Judge for the East ern Wisconsin District. The Howe men declined this proposition. The late conference of the Howe and Koyes men was slimly attended, there not being enough to form a majority of the Republican votes. Those present could not agree, and the conference dissolved. It is conceded that Carpenter will be nominated by the Republicans in the morning, protably by acclamation. The Howe and Keyes men are now, 11 o'clock p. m., flocking to Carpenter's headquarters and giving in their allegiance. Carpenter will be nominated at 9 o'clock to-morrow morning, and elected by joint ballot at 12 o'clock This result has been reached by the tenacity of the Howe and the Keyes men, who stuck to their favorites till it was too late to combine in any other

REVIVAL MEETINGS.

The second special meeting was held at this church last evening, with a congregation considerably larger than on the previous evening. Rev. W. II. Prestley, the pastor, preached a deeply impressive discourse, in which the audience was much interested. The meeting was churacterized by a feeling of seriousness which was most encouraging to the pastor and members. There will be service again this evening, and a cordini invitation is extended to ail.

FIRST M. E. CHURCE. According to previous announcement, Dr. Goodwin addressed his discourse last evening to the members of secret societies, taking the position that while the principles of these orders may tend to the cultivation of many virtues, and may prescribe an upright mode of life, the finishing touch of the Christian religion is needed to prepare men for the fruitions of eternal life. The large lecture room was filled before the services commenced, and as the people continued to crowd in it became necessary to open the large infant class room in the rear, which was also crowded, and after all the room had been furnished that could be, many persons were compelled to stand. The sermon was, as usual, followed by singing and prayer, during which inquirers came to the altar for prayer, and five persons gave in their names as members on probation. Services will be held this evening, and also to-morrow morning, at the usual

The best meeting of the series now in progress at this church was held last night, with quite an increase of congregation, and a marked increase of interest. A very interesting discourse from the pastor evidently produced a deep impression upon the audience. Services again this evening, and a cordial invitation to

THE BEHOER FAMILY, - We take pleasare in calling attention to the advertisement of this popular troupe, as they give one of the most pleasing entertainments now being presented to the public. The daily Journal, of Newark, New Jersey, speaks as follows of the entertainment as whole, and of the individual members of the company in their respective roles:

In the Grand Opera House, hast evening, a most delightful entertainment was given. It opened with an overture by the Berger Family Parlor Orchestra, composed of seven young ladies and three gentlemen, all of whom were skillful in their performances on the violin, flute, cornet, horn, barry and trombure. horn, harp and trombune. Vocal music by Miss Fidelia Densmore, and a saxo-phone solo by Miss Etta Morgan, were followed by character songs by Sol Smith Russell, who is certainly almost peerless Russell, who is certainly almost peerless in his way. Later in the evening Mr. Russell gave his own character creations, "Miss Doreas Pennyroyal" and "The Tramp Epicure," and confirmed the audience in the opinion that he is a humorist and delineator paraccellence. Uprostious mirth was the result of each of his appearances on the stage. Mr. Lumbard, who has a fine bass voice, Miss Densande, normally desponded and Miss Kendo, controlled desoprano, and Miss Kemlo, contralto, de-lighted the audience by their singing. The entertuloment is without an objectionable feature, while being extremely anusing, and it is a pleasure to commend the troupe to our people and to the press of other

THE report at the revival meeting at the First M. E. Church last night that a lady in the audience had been visited by a stroke of paralysis created no little excitement. Benjamin M. Smith, in Mt. Zion town- of the afternoon. ship, about 9 miles south of this city. It was a well-planned "surprise" on the Misses Nannie, Mineryn, Annie and Maria Smith, the beautiful and accomplished daughters of the host. Without going into the details of the affair, we will simply state that the occasion was beyond all question about 20 notches shead of any similar occasion yet given in that neck of the woods. The evening was passed in social chat and the moderate indulgence in tereslehorean pleasures. while Prof. Leonard's orchestra dispensed delightful music. At a proper hour the company discussed a banquet fit for the gods, embracing all the substantials and delicacies of the season. Among those School at Pontiac, or to give him a juil present from this city, who went out in sleighs and carriages, were the following: Misses Annie Chambers, Julia Kesler, of Delphi, Ind., guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Abbott, Gussie Hill, Donna Ulery, Louis Tuttle, Alice Tyler, Sophic Halleck, Katio Buchert, Fannie Smith and Nettic Alderson, and Messrs. L. A. Johnson, Charles Masser, Charles Tyler, Edward Sloan, Herbert Bartholomew, Chas. Adams, Edwin Carter, Churles Fletcher, Burt Hardy and Charles Walters. The company said "ta-ta" at a very infant hour and the Decatur party arrived home oon after four o'clock this morning.

SHAUHHAUN.-John T. Hinds, the worldrenowned Irish comedian, supported by i first-class company, will appear at the opera house on Friday and Saturday evenings of this week. On Friday evening "The Shaughaun" will be presented, a piece that abounds in laughable hits and incidents, bringing out in a striking manner the peculiarities of the Irish character and customs. The following is from the Bloomington Pantagraph:

Those who appreciate genuine character acting, and enjoy Irish wit and the comicalities of Irish life, will find themselves richly repaid in witnessing the performances of this exceptionally excellent company. It is difficult to write about Mr. Hinds as an Irish impersonator with-out using superintives. He deserves the distinguished reputation he is rapidly attaining, and will doubtless reach the co-lebrity in his peculiar role that Joe Jef-ferson has attained in the play of "Rip 'an Winkle."

A Drei. Over "My Grandfather's CLOCK."-The following from the Philadelphia Record will serve as a warning to our musicians whose passions still linger lovingly and long about the above much abased time. Pianists and whistling young gentlemen may also profit by reading of the fate of the North Carolina fiddler. 'Grandfather's Clock" has "stopped short," and "Baby Mine" will soon find a grave. But rend.

There are many stories told of the pa There are many stores told of the pa-tience of American people and particu-larly the amount of this estimable quality they have displayed in bearing with that superannuated tune called "My Grand-father's Clock." At last forbearance has ceased to be a virtue, and the song has caused a death at Lenoire, in the State of North Carolina. A fludler scraped his how across the strings of a violia which, in responsive chord, save out the familiar in responsive chord, gave out the familian air. While this was going on, Maj. From the Spirit of the Times The Bonner stable has been showing remarkable speed on the road since the fine sleighing was in vogue. Mr. H. B. Perkins, well-known as a prominent road driver and an excellent judge of speed, informs us that on Monday morning, the sleighing being superb, as he was jogging down the road, he heard a horse coming behind him that he thought must be running away, but as the animal passed, like a flash of light, he saw that it was Mr. Bonner and Startle. In an instant almost the horse had disappeared from gaze. Mr. Perkins is of opinion that he was speeding at least at a 2:10 gate, and the ice and

The juveniles have a new game called Blind Man's Mockery," out of which they are getting lots of amusement. One of the party is blind-folded, and while he is counting twenty-five the others range themselves as miscellane ously as possible in a row, and hold out their hands. The "blind man" slaps somebody's hands, at the same time inquiring, "Who are you?" The youngster slapped rather impolitely replies, "None of your business," and the "blind wan" is obliged to guess his name from the sound of his voice. He can guess but once, and, if he fails, must try some one clse until he guesses right, when the one whom he detects becomes "the man." The game depends upon quickness of car, as well as upon the ability to disguise the voice, and it shows a wonderful difference in children in both re-
